INTERESTING ADDRESS.

The representative of the Freight and Passenger Department of the Southern Railway Company were brought together in Atlanta on February 12th, at the request of President Fisher, who addressed them in part as follows:

Your duties bring you into personal and daily contact with the people along the lines of the Southern Railway, and I as one who has filled positions which some of you are now filling, propose to speak to you briefly of the relations of freight and passenger agents to the public. Your duties are of a two-fold nature. You owe duties to the railway company by which you are employed and you owe duties to the public. These double duties do not in any way result in conflict or divided allegiance, for he serves the railway best who serves the public best.

The general officers of a railway have, unfortunately, too few opportunities for meeting and talking with the people who are dependent upon the road for transportation services. The man having business relations with the road, as a rule, comes into personal contact with the local representatives of the traffic and operating departments. The policies of the railway are formulated and mapped out by the general officers, but the application of these policies to specific transactions must be entrusted in the main to men in the field. It follows, then, that you have in a substantial sense the reputation of the Southern Railway Company for fair and just dealing in your hands. Whether the company shall be popular or unpopular depends in very large measure upon your attitude toward the public and upon your treatment of those doing business with the road. It is of supreme importance, therefore, that you, who daily come into intimate personal contact with the public, should bear in mind constantly that it is the unvarying policy of the company to be just and fair to all alike—to the small shippers and the occasional traveler as well as to the large shipper and the regular traveler—that you should be perfectly frank in all business dealings; that you should always be considerate and patient; and that you should do all in your power to make the services of the road satisfactory to those for whom they are performed.

All classes of the public should be treated with consideration and be given every possible and reasonable accommodation. Even the man who makes impossible or unreasonable demands should not be dismissed with a curt refusal. He may not know that what he asks is either impossible or unreasonable, and a few words of frank explanation pointing out to him why his wishes cannot be complied with may send him away a friend of the road instead of a fault-finder. While every thing possible should be done for the accommodation of those doing business with the road, care should be exercised not to promise the impossible in the way of facilities or services. When failure to fulfill such a promise follows, the man who made it may be able to shift responsibility to the operating or some other department with the result that the damage done to the reputation of the road cannot be easily remedied. Questions that seem to you to be trivial may be considered of much importance by the persons asking them and they should be answered with patience and courtesy.

The efficiency of the service as a whole depends upon the efficiency of each individual official and employee. Every agent and employee should study his duties in detail and should understand thoroughly just what he is to do in any contingency that may arise. He should then neglect no detail of his duties, however unimportant it may seem to him, for no matter how carefully and minutely duties may be prescribed by the general officers, the neglect of some apparently minor detail may lead to serious or possibly to disastrous results. Of even more importance than a careful observance of duties prescribed by the company is obedience to law. Many of the relations between the railways and the public are now regulated by Federal and State statutes, and every official and employee of the Southern Railway Company must understand that its business affairs are to be conducted at all times in strict accordance with the laws of the land. No transaction or practice that is forbidden by the laws can be permitted, and as I am sure you all understand, there must be no resort to evasion of any kind.

The representatives of the Southern Railway Company you should bear in mind at all times the basic fact that the interests of the railways and of those served by it are identical and that they are inseparably interwoven. The railway can prosper only as a result of the prosperity of communities by which the demand for transportation is increased, and the prosperity of the South can continue and can be brought to the highest possible level only through adequate and efficient transportation facilities. At the present time, when every effort is being made to supply additional facilities and more efficient services, nothing is more important than that the truth of this proposition should be realized by men in all lines of business. When once this identity of interests is thoroughly understood the railroads of the South and the people will be brought together in more harmonious co-operation for the development of the natural resources of the South and for the expansion of all lines of industry. The men in the freight and passenger departments are in a position to do much to bring about this mutual good understanding and this harmonious co-operation for the building of the territory traversed by the lines of the company. Your careful attention to the wants of the people and your considerate treatment of everyone having business with the road will serve as a constant object lesson of its interest in the individuals and communities along its lines.

My personal experience convinces me that the people as a rule are far-minded and when fully informed can be relied upon to deal justly with the transportation interests.

I feel sure that it is only necessary to direct your attention to the importance of your relations to the public, and that we shall have your loyal support in carrying out what is the policy of the company—the building up of a thoroughly efficient transportation system on the solid basis of harmonious relations with the people along its lines.

There is another point to which I desire to call your especial attention. The management of the Southern Railway has been confided to us as a high and sacred trust. This trust is not confined to the President, the general officers or the Board of Directors. It applies with equal obligation, in its sphere of action, to the humblest employee as it does to the highest. Each has his duty to perform and, in the performance of that duty, he represents the railway and is engaged in the performance of a trust in respect to it. The brakemen cannot perform the President's duty, nor can the President perform the brakemen's. Each must do faithfully his own duty and only in the honest and faithful performance of duty by all can there come proper measure of success.

The railway and the public are entitled to the very best that is in our employees, from the highest to the lowest—they are both entitled to demand that there shall be no lukewarm or limited service, but that the heart of our employees shall be in their work. All of us have voluntarily undertaken a duty in respect to this property and the railway and the public should receive from each of us full and faithful performance.

I wish to build up among all our employees a spirit of interest and cooperation—a spirit in which each man will recognize that he is identified with the railway and will earnestly and honestly work for its welfare. Only in this way can we successfully administer the trust which has been confided to us.

TUESDAY FIRE.

About 1 o'clock, p. m., on Tuesday, an alarm from box 35, called the department to a frame cottage of Mrs. Bettie Pendleton, colored, on Mero street. The roof of the house, as well as another adjoining (both belonging to Mrs. Pendleton) were pretty badly damaged. The loss from the fire and water was close to $500.

ON HIS SUIT.

In the Court of Appeals an opinion was handed down on Tuesday, upholding the constitutionality of limitations on the power of the City of Frankfort to issue bonds. The case was brought by the City of Frankfort against the State of Kentucky. The City of Frankfort had issued bonds in 1893, but did not file suit for lien on the property for the cost of the work until 1904. When the suit was brought Waggoner pleaded the statute in bar, and the Court of Appeals upheld his plea.

EXTENDING HIS STORE.

Mr. John W. Milam is having his store room, on Main street, extended back the full length of his lot, some twenty-seven feet. The store room is now occupied by Mr. John W. Gayle as a merchant tailoring establishment.

Mr. John G. Rogers has purchased from Mr. Thos. E. Kenney the vacant lot next to his new dwelling, on Steele street, and will erect a handsome brick house on it as soon as the weather opens up. It will be modern in all its appointments.

WILL BUILD TWO NEW DWELLINGS.

Messrs. Scott & Goin, the contractors, have completed the plans for two new dwelling houses which Mr. Lefe Crutcher will have built upon that part of his lot fronting on Secaucus street. The houses will have all modern conveniences and will be built as soon as the weather opens in the spring.

JACKSON'S HOLE.

A great many vague ideas cluster about the name of Jackson's Hole, and its evil reputation is probably due to the activity of a band of bold horse thieves, who operated from this quarter during the last half of the century just passed. Owen Winter makes reference to the place as being a rendezvous for stolen horses. A thief named Jackson was the leader of the band who gave the name to the country, and an old man now living a quiet, honest life in Wyoming is said to be the same bandit leader. My guide, Wilson, rode a big gray gelding, with a handmade steel lever hitch, which he says was used by Jackson on his saddle horse during his many raids on the herds of horses of the early settlers and ranchmen of Wyoming—Our Country for February.

HIS WHEREABOUTS.

Stephen Tasker, of Philadelphia, had been congratulated on his exploring expedition in Labrador, an expedition whereon he had taken his wife.

"Those wild regions," said Mr. Tasker, smiling, "made hardly an appropriate place for a quiet married pair to visit on a pleasure trip. Still, everything came out well in the end—came out better than the young widow's adventure, eh?"

"A young widow was consulting a tombstone maker about her husband's tomb. She ended the discussion with: 'And I want it to say, To my husband in an appropriate place, Mr. Slab.'"

"All right, ma'am," Slab answered. "And the tombstone when it was put up said: 'To my Husband. In an Appropriate Place.'"

[For the Roundabout.] DISCOURAGEMENT.

To so many of us suspense is the most wasting experience of living. Occasionally one runs "up against" a fellow who stands hopeful as to final results even in the face of reason, and others who cringe and fear from overwhelming grief because something has turned up to overturn plans and fortune.

These persons are to be pitied because suspense is a more intelligent suffering than sorrow, and its compensation rather in the power to accept the result. Common sense towers these latter cases over, while the others trust God and hope for better luck to-morrow.

To "let down" in ones highest standards of right-doing is to lose our grip on everything that is worth having in this life!

"Money, friends, good clothes, a good business position, and every other such legitimate, temporal blessing, are most surely secured by living up uncompromisingly to the highest standard we know, and all these blessings are endangered the moment we deceive ourselves into thinking that they can be retained only by yielding a little of one's highest principles.

"But if I do as I am told to," asserted a young man in business, deprecating the fact that he was told to do things from which his honorable nature recoiled: "I'll lose my job on the spot." And strange irony of circumstance and temptation, he hears the voice, and the papers herald the disgrace, eventually and permanently.

Such characters loom up in divorce courts, the suicide column, and through other means and methods of exposition: "Pity 'tis, 'tis true!"

Discouragement is very contagious, and easily "caught." It is also a creature of habit, and becomes almost a part of one's life if coddled and encouraged, and will kill a man or a woman as quickly as a dose of poison. I lost my friend! Misfortune overtook him, wealth was dissipated in unwise speculation. Hope abandoned him and he died, because of discouragement. If, perchance, he had received encouragement, either financially or in other ways, had kept his home, and lived among old friends and companions, instead of with strangers, doubtless he would have gained lost faith in himself, arisen to the height of labor, regained hope, and to-day have laughed and talked in the land of the living instead of lying cold and calm in death.

When the morning breaks and you, my friend, awake to a realization of wealth in health, hope, and happiness, go forth as a seed-sower, with the joy of life in your face, a word of encouragement on your lips, remembering that God will hold you responsible for the way in which you make use of His blessings. An object lesson was taught yesterday. Some boys were playing marbles, and a passerby stopped to watch the game.

Inadvertently he stood in the light and a boy exclaimed: "Please, Mister, git out of our sunshine."

Yes, 'tis more than truth: Standing in the way of one's sunlight. Half of the world need sunshine more than food; because illness is caused by over-feeding, and if the lesson is inculcated when the child shall have learned that hope is the mainspring of existence, and happiness is a creature of habit. Hunt up the discouraged friend. Tuck a bank note in his pocket. Help him to find work, and assist him "over the hill" in other ways, and there will be fewer failures and fewer ruined lives.

LA GRIFFE GETS IN ITS WORK.

We have been reading in the newspapers about the epidemics of la grippe in Lexington and other points, and of the large number of cases, but it certainly has at last gotten in its work in this city.

The physicians report that there are hundreds of cases, and some pretty severe ones, but as yet no fatalities. "Hab you had the grip yet?" is the usual salutation "in the morning."

BADLY INJURED BY FALL FROM WALL.

On Saturday night or early Sunday morning, Mr. James Goldey, a stone-cutter, employed by the Capital Construction Co., fell from the high stone retaining wall, which guards the sidewalk and overlooks the passage way to the city wharf, striking his head on one of the projecting stones in the wall, and thence to the roadway.

A terrible gash was cut in the man's head, tearing nearly the whole scalp of the top of the head away.

About 6 o'clock Officer George McDonald, who was on his way to police headquarters to report for duty, heard the man groaning and went to his assistance. Together with Officer Pierce they took him to Dr. C. A. Flah's office, where the wounds were dressed, and thence to his boarding place on the South Side.

It is supposed that the man, who was seen very drunk, Saturday night, lay down on the broad top of the wall, fell asleep and rolled off, with the result given above.

Up to the time we write Goldey had not recovered consciousness enough to give a connected account of the accident.

When not in his cups the man is said to be a fine workman, and is highly esteemed by his employers.

Mr. C. B. Roberts has bought the property of Mr. R. C. Head, located on Main street.

Mr. R. S. Sprake has returned from Millersburg, where he attended a meeting of the directors of the Hurst Home Insurance Co.

Mr. Hopkins Moore had the misfortune to have a valuable mare run away, last Friday, and break her leg. She had to be destroyed.

A GALLANT VETERAN ANSWERS THE LAST ROLL CALL.

Death of Capt. C. W. Merchant.

After a lingering illness of many months, Capt. Caleb W. Merchant died at his home in this county, on Saturday morning, Feb. 23rd, 1907, in the 75th year of his age.

Of a modest, retiring disposition, going quietly in and out among us, but few people knew or realized that "Cale Merchant," as he was familiarly known, had carved out a history which falls to but few men and to which his children and grandchildren will point with pride in the years to come. From a wild boy in a neighboring city he developed into the gallant soldier, serving his country long and well, then laying aside the implements of war to become the steady, honest and peace-loving citizen he was.

Caleb Wesley Cloud Merchant was born in Lexington, Kentucky, August 21st, 1832, being named for Dr. Caleb W. Cloud, who was a prominent physician in that city 75 years ago. He learned the printer's art in the office of the Lexington Observer and Reporter, edited by the late Col. D. C. Wickliffe, but in 1855 enlisted in the United States Army, being assigned to the Fourth Cavalry, and serving with that organization for ten years. The earlier years of his service was spent upon the western frontier, during which time the officers of his regiment were men who afterwards wrote their names high upon the roster of fame during the Civil War. Robert E. Lee being at one time his Lieutenant; Colonel, Gena. George and J. E. B. Stewart, of the Confederate Army, Captains, as were also Gens. Geo. B. McClellan, Thos. J. Wood and S. B. Sturgis, of the Federal Army, and General Sumner his Colonel. Capt. Wood was in command of his company for some time before the breaking out of the Civil War and up to the time he was commissioned as a Brigadier General of Volunteers. Gen. Wood, being a Kentuckian, held all in front of his wagon—the troops being some miles in advance—and when about a mile away from the train six Kiowa Indians suddenly came up out of a ravine, circled around and began an attack upon him. They wounded his horse, behind which he shielded himself as much as possible, and opened fire upon them, with his Sharp's carbine, killing one and wounding two others so that they could not get away, but not before one of them had thrown a lance which struck him in the face and laid open his left cheek, an ugly scar from the wound he carried to his grave. The timely arrival of the train guard was all that saved him from being killed.

In 1857 he was with the command of Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston, which marched across the plains to subdue the Mormon insurrection in Utah, reaching the heights above Salt Lake City after Brigham Young had sued for peace, and the soldiers were not permitted to enter the city except in small parties.

Later he was with his regiment when Col. Sumner was sent to suppress the trouble between the Free-soilers and Border Ruffians in Kansas, and met, among the prisoners taken by his command, two of his brothers who were captains of bands of Border Ruffians.

When the war between the States broke out his regiment was assigned to the Department of Missouri, and at the Battle of Springfield he served as an orderly to Gen. Sturgis, and was sent by that officer through the lines to recover the body of Gen. Lyons. Later his regiment was transferred east of the Mississippi and he took part with it in all of the important engagements from Shiloh to the Battle of Franklin, Tennessee.

At the time Hon. Clement L. Vallandigham was expelled from the Union lines it was Sergeant Merchant who had charge of the squad which delivered him to the Confederate pickets at Guy's Gap, Tennessee.

In the operations around Atlanta he was wounded in the leg, and, when with Gen. Kilpatrick on his raid south of Atlanta, had his horse killed under him, and just as he mounted another was struck upon the nose by a spent ball which made him feel of the back of his neck to find where it passed out as he thought he was shot through the head.

The greater portion of the later years of his service he was in command of his company, the regiment being commanded by a Lieutenant, the other officers being absent as Colonels and Generals in the volunteer service.

In his discharge from the army he leaves a precious heritage to his children, as it is an eloquent testimonial to his gallantry and unswerving fealty to duty, showing that he participated in twenty-one regular battles and numerous skirmishes, and that his service had been honorable in a high degree.

His last term of service expired just after the battle of Nashville, and although offered every inducement to re-enlist, he determined to return to civil life, accepted his discharge, came to this city to reside and secured a position at the Old Commonwealth office, where he worked at the case for a number of years, until offered a position on the police force, of which organization he was a member about ten years, serving one or two terms as Chief.

Although justly entitled to a pension years ago, he steadily refused to apply for one until the infirmities of age began to creep upon him and the opportunity for employment grew less. For eight years he was night watchman at the United States Building, resigning the position in February last, owing to failing health, and a desire to remove to a small farm he had purchased about two miles from the city. Capt. Merchant leaves a devoted wife, two daughters (Mrs. A. W. Naylor, of this county, and Mrs. J. B. Eastin, of Lexington), and two sons (Messrs. Hugh and C. W. Merchant, Jr., of this city), and a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn his death.

He was twice married, his first wife being a Texas lady, by whom he had one daughter, who, if we mistake not, is married and still living in that State.

The funeral services were conducted from the First Baptist Church, of this city, on Monday morning, Rev. Dr. M. B. Adams officiating, and the remains were laid away in the family lot in our cemetery.

Capital Lodge, No. 6, Odd Fellows and Dexter Lodge, No. 30, Knights of Pythias, attended the funeral in a body and marched to the cemetery, the Odd Fellows conducting the burial rites over the grave of their dead brother.

Having for years worked by his side at the case and later, when, with changing administrations, he would lose his position upon the police force, he would enter our employ, we learned to know him as few people did, and take a mournful pleasure in testifying to his worth as a man, a citizen and as a soldier.

Soft be his slumbers and gently rest the sod above him.

TO THE DAIRYMEN AND CATTLE BREEDERS OF KENTUCKY.

Shelbyville, Ky., Feb. 19, 1907.

If you are interested in the dairy business, either as a breeder of dairy stock, or a producer of milk and cream, it is a very essential that you should take a day or two off and attend the meeting to be held in Shelbyville, Ky., during the State Farmers' Institute, which will be in session Feb. 26, 27 and 28. You may or may not have experienced difficulties in satisfying certain Health Departments as to the health of your herd and sanitary condition of your barns. A great many have been confronted with this proposition, and the greatest feature of it is, that the Pure Food Department of Kentucky, the State Board of Health and the City Board of Health of Louisville are not working in harmony. In order that uniform rules shall govern, the Shelby County Dairy and Cattle Breeders' Association has deemed it wise to form a State Dairy Organization. We believe that we can have the Legislature appoint a Dairy Commissioner, who shall be a practical man, and a State Veterinary Surgeon, who shall be subject to the call of every stockman, to inspect his herd at the expense of the State. We also hope to have some laws enacted that will promote the dairy interests.

The dairy business is becoming a very important branch of agriculture in Kentucky. In Shelby county alone there are 130 dairy farmers. During the last session of the Legislature, a very unjust bill was offered by a member from Louisville, who represented a clique, who sought to place great power in the hands of one man, who could have your cattle slaughtered at will, and to show you the schemes that were practiced to further the passage of this bill, there was a dummy bill printed in circular form and purporting to be a copy of the original, that was sent out for distribution among the dairymen of Shelby county. This dummy bill was changed in wording so as to appear far more reasonable and just than the original. The Shelby County Association went to Frankfort in large numbers and with the assistance of members of the House and Senate, who readily saw the injustice that was being practiced, succeeding in defeating the passage of this bill, even after it had passed one committee. The Shelby County Association has done good work with members of the Louisville Board of Council.

With a State organization, working together, we will be assured of fair and impartial laws. As the lawmakers of our State would not dare to oppress or destroy so important an industry as dairy farming and with reasonable laws and fair prices for our products, there is no business that we can follow that will bring us so good a revenue and at the same time increase the fertility of our farm lands.

I trust that each man may consider this a personal invitation, and I almost feel like guaranteeing his expenses of the trip, as I know that the benefits to be derived from a State organization will be very great. Aside from this feature you will be enabled to hear some of the greatest dairy lecturers in the United States, who will speak at the State Farmers' Institute while you are here.

Trusting that as many as possible will be present, I remain, Very respectfully, HART WALLACE, President Shelby County Dairy and Cattle Breeders Association.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine Cured Me.

Mrs. H. R. Jobe, formerly of Birmingham, Ala., writes from Eldridge, the same state, as follows:

"It is with the greatest pleasure that I recommend Dr. Miles' Nervine and Heart Cure. I only wish that I could tell every sufferer how much good they have done me. Last winter I had a severe attack of La Grippe, which left my heart in a very bad condition. I could not lie down for the smothering spells that I could almost overcome me and the feeling of oppression around my heart. I had not been so that I could lie on my left side for a long time. I got your Heart Cure and took three bottles. I have no trouble now with my heart and can lie on my left side as well as my right. Formerly I had suffered for years with nervous prostration. I had tried so many remedies that I had got clear out of heart of getting anything that would help me. The nerve of my heart were so affected that sometimes it would lose beats so it would seem to stop altogether. It was on the advice of a lady friend that I tried your Restorative Nervine. I felt better after the first few doses and two bottles of Nervine and one of Heart Cure made me feel like a new person. My heart is all right and my nervousness is all gone. I never fail to recommend it to others afflicted as I was."

HEADQUARTERS OF THE BURLEY TOBACCO SOCIETY.

Winchester, Ky., Feb. 14th, 1907.
To the Growers of the Burley District:

Dear Friends:—
The past thirty days have been the most wonderful in the history of American farming. Our pool closed January 12th last and the Board of Directors met in Winchester on the 15th following without a single pip, perfected for curing for the two-thirds of the 1906 Burley crop which had been placed in their hands by their fellow farmers to handle and sell. How well placed that confidence was is shown by the facts accomplished. At that meeting plans were formed which have been sufficient to overcome difficulties that seemed insurmountable; and no those who at first scoffed at the idea of a "lot of farmers" sticking together and doing something are opening their eyes in amazement at the marvelous success we have achieved.

Every county in the district has financed its crop or arranged to do so; a thing that has wrecked all other previous organizations. The ease with which it was accomplished has been a surprise even to ourselves. Tobacco banks have been eager to secure patronage, and we have been able to offer collateral that is gill-edged. Every county in this district has secured warehouse accommodations arranged to do so for such part of the crop as it will be necessary to care for at once; and everywhere the owners who do not need the assistance of the financier and the warehouseman, are tackling the job of handling their own crops with a confidence that augurs success; and in most of the counties, the Boards of Control have supervisors who will watch these outside crops and see that their conditions and treatment are kept up to the highest standards possible. This should be looked after carefully in every county.

These things have been done without any precedents to guide the County Boards and no man who is not one of them can appreciate the unselfish labor and worry they have endured in order that their fellow men might be benefited. The tobacco growers will be grateful and every man, woman and child in the Burley District ought to remember with thankful hearts these men who have "made bricks without straw," who have made something of great value where formerly there was nothing.

Besides all this, in most of the counties the campaign for the 1907 crop is already on; and this is the key to the situation. If we can pool 60 per cent. of the 1907 crop the world's tobacco buyers will be knocking at the doors of every warehouse under our control within a very short time; and before the fight is over we are going to have 85 per cent. and maybe more. That is the fact; heart stood out last year will come in this year when they see that we have succeeded and are pushing our fight along business lines that mean certain success for the future.

So far we have failed in nothing that we have set out to do; and with the help of Him, who is always on the side of the oppressed, and the gallant yeomanry and our many friends of this Burley District we will continue to succeed until all our enemies cry, "Hold, Enough!"

Yours for Success,

LUCIEN BECKNER,
Sec'y Burley Tobacco Society.

MR. RILEY DID NOT KNOW.

Woman Reporter Asked Question
Hard to Answer.

A friend of James Whitcomb Riley tells a story of an encounter the bachelor poet once had with a woman reporter. The energetic young woman, after strenuous effort, had finally caught Mr. Riley at the telephone. This is the conversation that followed:

"Is this Mr. Riley?"

"Yes. That is Miss—?"

"Miss Jones, of the Courier-Journal. I've been trying all day to get an interview," said the poet, gallantly.

"Oh, thanks. How long will you remain in Louisville, Mr. Riley?"

"Only a short time."

"Is your wife with you?"

"No, ma'am, she, may I ask?"

"You may ask, my dear Miss Jones, but I find it very difficult to answer. I am in absolute ignorance of her whereabouts. For aught I know to the contrary, she may right now be at the other end of this telephone!"

There was much laughter, and afterward an effort to resume the interview. But in vain. Mr. Riley had escaped.—Home Companion.

Buy Furniture Economically.

Extravagance consists in buying the wrong thing at the wrong price.

Economy consists in buying the right thing at the right price.

If you are truly economical you will not buy furniture merely because it is cheap. It should be bought—first for its appropriateness—and second, for its durability.

It will give us pleasure to show you our present offerings in fine and medium priced furniture—the sort that is both appropriate and durable. And we shall also be glad to tell you of our liberal partial payment plan—a little at a time, as your income permits.

A MEASURE OF MERIT.

Frankfort Citizens Should Weigh Well This Evidence.

Proof of merit lies in the evidence. Convincing evidence in Frankfort. Is not the testimony of strangers. But the endorsement of Frankfort people.

That's the kind of proof given here—

Mrs. Mollie E. Callis, of 574 Holmes St., wife of W. H. Callis, foreman at the Frankfort Chair Co.'s Works, says: "I have the greatest faith in Doan's Kidney Pills for their treatment brought me untold relief. I had backache for years. It was not severe at all times, but when an attack occurred, especially if I overexerted myself in any way, aggravation of the aching was sure to follow. A positive proof of some disturbed action of the kidneys was trouble with the kidney secretions. I tried various remedies, but found nothing that did me any permanent good. Reading an advertisement in our local papers about Doan's Kidney Pills it occurred to me that they might at least give some relief. Acting on this thought I went to J. W. Gayle's Drug Store and got a box. Their use proved that what people said about Doan's Kidney Pills was nothing short of the truth. The pain and aching in my back ceased and the trouble with the kidney secretions was corrected. I thoroughly believe that any preparation which acts up to the representations made it like Doan's Kidney Pills can not be too well known."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster—Millburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

BAD ACCIDENT.

Jas. Buckley, former keeper of the workhouse, but now a brakeman on the L. & N. R. R., was dangerously hurt, while coming through the tunnel on a freight car.

Buckley, it seems, forgot to get down off the top of the car, as it passed into the tunnel, and was struck on the forehead and top of his head and thrown backwards from the train.

He was picked up by his train crew and brought into the city, where Dr. John G. South was summoned. He found the skull crushed in at the forehead and the head a mass of bruises and cuts.

Dr. South rendered every attention possible, and, in the afternoon, Buckley was taken to Louisville on a cot on board the 3:20 L. & N. train.

His injuries are very serious and it is doubtful if he recovers. He is a man of powerful physique, otherwise he would have been instantly killed.

SELLS HIS FINE HOME AND BUYS FARM.

Dr. J. Albert Posey has sold his handsome residence, on North Shelby street, to Mr. S. M. Sautley.

Dr. Posey has also purchased a farm of 30 acres, from O. N. Smith, lying on the Louisville pike, will move to it in the near future, and will establish a poultry farm. He has been very successful in raising fancy chickens of the Buff Orpington breed, having taken a number of handsome premiums on his fowls. He has sold quite a number of them at very remunerative prices.

He will not, however, give up his practice as a dentist, but will be at his office, as usual, every day.

AWFUL DEATH.

Employee of T. E. Kenney's Mill Burned to Death at Irvine.

On Saturday night, Mr. John Rice, an employee of Mr. Thos. E. Kenney, the mill man, who had been sent to the headwaters of the Kentucky river, to look after logs belonging to Mr. Kenney, loaded up on booze and went to a shanty on a raft of logs, where some friends of his were. The men finding Rice in bad shape from liquor, put him to bed in the shanty and made up a good fire in the stove. They then crossed the river into Irvine and had started up town, when they heard screams from the raft and saw flames burst out of the shanty.

They immediately hurried back to the raft, but found that the man, who had been overcome by the flames, had fallen across the stove where he was literally cooked to death.

The coroner of Estill county held an inquest Sunday morning, a verdict being found according with the facts.

The body was brought home on Monday and buried in our cemetery.

There was a rumor here that the man had met with foul play, but, when the full facts were known, it developed that all the money the man had was still on his person, the notes being burned to ashes in his pocket book and the silver money still intact.

The man was a good workman, but would occasionally go on a spree. He had been in the employ of the mill men for several years and was thoroughly qualified to attend to lumber. He had separated from his wife and children some time since, but was contributing to their support.

A distressing feature of the affair is that small-pox had broken out in his family, and they are all, except one daughter, who has been ill with typhoid fever at the King's Daughters Hospital for sometime, now in the pest house.

JUST WHAT OUGHT TO BE DONE.

At the recent convention of officers of the Kentucky National Guards, held in this city, the following resolution was offered by Col. W. B. Holdeman and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That this Convention, in the interest of the Kentucky State Guard and in accord with the action of other States in providing for their militia, does respectfully and earnestly urge upon the members of the Legislature that will assemble in Jan., 1908, to make such provision as will insure regular attendance at drills and other exercises necessary to the proper discipline and military training of the organized militia of Kentucky. To that end we state our belief that attendance by enlisted men and non-commissioned officers at drills, inspections, parades and other exercises prescribed for the instruction of the Kentucky State Guard, be construed as the performance of one day's duty and be paid for at the Government rate of pay for such enlisted men and non-commissioned officers when on duty. No charge shall be presented against the State by any regiment of the Kentucky Guard for more than fifty-two attendances per annum, at such exercises, by any member of any company, battalion or regiment.

We have often wondered why this step had not been taken heretofore. A majority of the young men, who compose the Guards, have positions upon which they are dependent for a livelihood, and these drills often interfere with their business interests.

Again there are many fine young fellows who are deterred from enlisting in the Guards on account of these facts. They are desirable material out of which to make the best soldiers.

We hope this resolution will be favorably acted upon by the Legislature.

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney nerves. The kidneys, like the heart, and the stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the kidneys alone is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine smells, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney diseases, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—a mouth-to-mouth or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggists recommend and sell

IF I SHOULD TO-NIGHT.

If I should die to-night,
My friends would look upon my quiet face:
Before they laid it in its resting place,
And deem that death had left it almost fair;
And, laying snow-white flowers against my hair,
Would smooth it down with tearful tenderness,
And fold my hands with lingering caress—
Poor hands, so empty and so cold to-night!

If I should die to-night,
My friends would call to mind with loving thought,
Some kindly deed the icy hands had wrought,
Some gentle word the frozen lips had said,
Errands on which the willing feet had sped;
The memory of my selfishness and pride.

My hasty words, would all be put aside,
And so I should be loved and mourned to-night.

If I should die to-night,
Even hearts estranged would turn once more to me,
Recalling other days remorsefully;
The eyes that chill me with averted glance
Would look upon me as of yore, perchance,
And soften in the old familiar way,
For who could war with dumb, unconscious clay?

So I might rest, forgiven of all to-night.
Oh, friends! I pray to-night,
Keep not your kisses for my dead, cold brow:
The way is lonely, let me feel them now.

'Think gently of me: I am travel-worn;
My faltering feet are pierced with many a thorn,
Forgive, oh, hearts estranged, forgive, I plead!

When dreamless rest is mine I shall not need
The tenderness for which I long to-night.

—Belle Eugenia Smith.

COMPROMISED CASE.

At the recent term of the Franklin Circuit Court, Mr. Schuyler B. Mayhall, Sr., recovered a judgment of $5,000 in damages against the city of Frankfort for injuries sustained by falling into an open ditch near the new L. & N. depot, on Broadway, last summer.

On Saturday last the case was compromised by the parties in interest for $3,000, each party to pay their own costs.

This was done rather than have an appeal taken in the case.

The L. & N. railroad was the real party in interest, that road having given a bond to save the city harmless from any damages on account of the work attached to the new depot.

WHY THIS DIFFERENCE?

We have received notice from the firms from whom we buy our paper stock that there has been an advance of 10 per cent on nearly all grades of paper used in a printing office, and that there is a probability of other advances in the near future. With us it is different from other business. If the grocer has to pay more for his sugar he charges his customer more and the customer never says a word. But if we were to place an advance of 10 per cent on the price of letter heads, envelopes, bill heads or other printed matter needed by the same merchant because the paper dealers are making us pay that much more this same merchant would throw up his hands in holy horror and declare he would go elsewhere to get his printing done. When the merchant puts up his price on his goods in keeping with the advances made by the manufacturers his customers accept the situation and say nothing. When the poor printers tells the same merchant that the manufacturer has compelled him to make a raise that merchant will not stand for it and raises the highest kind of protest. He is not willing to let us apply the same rules to our business he does to his own. Here we are!

A FOOLISH PLAN

'Tis a joy to eat—I welcome my dinner hours
(Because I trust indigestion with August Flower!)

Constipation is the result of indigestion, biliousness, flatulency, loss of appetite, self-poisoning, anemia, emaciation, uric acid, neuralgia in various parts of the system, catarrhal inflammation of the intestinal canal and numerous other ailments that rob life of its pleasures if they do not finally rob you of life itself.

"I'm bound in the bowels," is a common expression of people who look miserable and are miserable—yet who persist in "letting nature take its course."

What a foolish plan, when nature could be aided by the use of Green's August Flower, which is nature's own remedy for constipation and all stomach ills.

August Flower gives new life to the liver and insures healthy stools.
